Our senior sunroof specialist has inspected the vehicle and the damage to the sunroof on behalf of B&A Motor Body Repairs. It is our professional opinion that the damage sustained to the sunroof is consistent with a foreign body impact.

Our senior sunroof specialist has been able to identify evidence of stone chip damage located on both the grill and windscreen of this vehicle. We have images available that identifies this damage.

It is our professional opinion that a stone or foreign object has struck the vehicle. Damage has been sustained to the vehicle and the foreign body/stone been reflected to the sunroof glass panel causing it to break.

The sunroof glass panel is manufactured in toughened glass which is designed to shatter on impact.

With over thirty years experience in the sunroof industry, our technicians are highly experienced in dealing with and assessing vehicles that sustain damage to sunroofs. Our workshop technicians assess many vehicles annually that have sustained similar damage.

Our general operating procedure when inspecting a vehicle which has sustained damage to the sunroof is to assess the vehicle and advise the customer of their options for repairing their vehicle.

If the client has motor vehicle insurance policy that covers damage to sunroofs, we would generally recommend that a claim is lodged with their insurance company.

> Once a claim is lodged, our office is then able to prepare a quote that will cover the repair to the vehicle. It is possible that the quote would contain prices to replace both the sunroof glass panel and the sunroof mechanism complete.

Upon request we will prepare a quote to repair the damage to the sunroof which includes both the labour involved in the repair and the parts required.
